▼ I got here tonight. I did receive an email from my hotel (check in there tomorrow - staying somewhere else tonight) telling me of road closures. I drove by the WH and SOME roads are closed, but not all. People are already camping out here.

▼ It's more route redirects than totally closed. But yeah reading .win would have you believe that everything is closed and it's on lockdown. It's definitely psyop bullshit.

▼ It is standard for them to close off a few small stretches of roads near the Capitol and WH when major events are happening. They do it so that people can safely walk on those roads.
They will not block highways or roads in and out of the city. It's literally only a block or two.

▼ On just a few blocks that can easily be navigated around. Those blocks will be closed so that people can congregate there safely.
